Access IS: the background to our new name

Since its formation over twenty years ago, Access Keyboards Ltd has manufactured custom keyboards for the point of sale, banking, airline and airport industries. During this time it has become a market leader in these sectors through a dedication to quality, reliability and value.

Over the past five years, we have developed a number of different and innovative data capture products in response to customer demand in these sectors and these new products have helped the business to enjoy significant growth, quadrupling in size in this time.

To reflect our broader product range and technical ability we have decided to change the company name from Access Keyboards to Access IS, an abbreviation of Access Interfacing Solutions. The new logo alludes to our heritage in keyboard design, using the shape of a keyboard return key. Using two interlocking shapes to complete the image, the logo represents the nature of the business today, a company that provides effective solutions to interfacing challenges.

The change is effective 29th October 2007. While we will trade using the name Access IS, the legal name of the business will change to Access Ltd. All other details will remain the same, including personnel, business address, telephone numbers, company registration number and banking details.

There is no change to the ownership or management of the business.
